

The mission of Rocky Mountain OPTI is to exceed the highest standards of excellence for osteopathic postgraduate training.

RMOPTI Research & Faculty Development E-Bulletin

Volume 2, Issue 2

July 18, 2016

Upcoming Conferences for Faculty and Academic Leaders

Dear Teaching Professor group member,

As you evaluate venues for growing and strengthening your professional skills and expertise, the Teaching Professor invites to consider these upcoming conferences developed for faculty and academic leaders.

The Teaching Professor Technology Conference

Sept. 30 – Oct. 2, 2016 in Atlanta

At The Teaching Professor Technology Conference, you'll take a close look at the diverse technologies that are influencing the ways teachers teach and learners learn. Whether the courses you teach are face-to-face, online, blended, flipped, or all of the above, the conference will help you take a more mindful approach to creating a better learning environment. You will leave invigorated with new ideas, information, and inspiration on the most effective ways to incorporate technology into your teaching. And it all kicks off with a provocative opening plenary by Gardner Campbell.

Learn More » <http://bit.ly/29DsbDE>

Leadership in Higher Education Conference

Oct. 6-8, 2016 in Atlanta

From the same people who bring you The Teaching Professor conferences, the inaugural Leadership in Higher Education Conference will help academic leaders set direction, solve problems, and make a positive imprint on campus. You will find sessions on leadership and management, evaluation and assessment, faculty hiring and development, and other key issues impacting higher education. If you're a department chair, division head, academic dean, program director, or provost, this conference will provide you with ideas and strategies to lead more effectively.

Learn More » <http://bit.ly/29yF0cN>

The Teaching Professor Conference

June 2-4, 2017 in St. Louis

Now in its 14th year, the Teaching Professor Conference provides a thought-provoking forum for educators of all disciplines and experience levels to share best practices that advance college teaching and learning. The three-day conference features preconference workshops that provide hands-on learning, plenary sessions keynoted by nationally-recognized experts, carefully selected concurrent sessions on a range of relevant topics, poster presentations highlighting the latest research, and ample opportunities for conversations with fellow attendees.

Learn More » <http://bit.ly/29HJfH6>

Please contact Magna Customer Service at support@magnapubs.com if you have questions about the conferences.

International attendees who might need a letter of invitation can find it on the Pricing & Registration pages of each conference website.

Regards,
Mary Bart
Teaching Professor group manager